World Travelers

Early explorers traveled the globe hundreds of years ago. When they set out on their journeys, they did not know much about the world. They did not have accurate maps to follow. And they didn't have today's technology to guide them. Their understanding of waterways and continents was limited. Still, they set out into the unknown.

Explorers left their homes in Europe, and brought back valuable information when they returned. Many of these explorers became famous for their findings. They were credited with discovering new areas of the world that no one from Europe had ever seen.
