We Go Together

Who is the parent and who is the baby? It is easy to tell. You can just look to see that some things go together.

This is a mother bear with her cub.

A photograph of a young evergreen tree in a forest. The tree is in the foreground, growing on a mossy ground. In the background, there are many tall, thin trees. A yellow speech bubble is overlaid on the image, containing text.

This young plant will grow up to be a large tree.
