Here some important greetings from the list are explained so that you can use in every day life which you can practice with your friends.

1. Bonjour – Good morning/hello

We can use bonjour to say “good morning” or “hello” to someone when you’re seeing them for the first time in the day. It can be any time of the day.

2. Bonsoir – Good evening

It is used when you meet them at evening for the first time. Here the time doesn’t matter if you are late also.

3. Bonne nuit – Good night

Bonne nuit it is used in the night when you taking a leave and going away.

4. Salut – Hi

It is a casual form of saying hello it can be literally translated as hai in English.

Salut is appropriate when you meet some one younger or the one who is very close to you.

5. Allo – Hello

This French greeting is used exclusively for conversations on the telephone.

6. Au revoir – Goodbye!

This is a safe way to say goodbye in French. We can use this word with anyone irrespective of his age and profession.

7. Enchanté(e) – Nice to meet you

It’s polite to indicate that you’re delighted to meet someone after they introduce themselves, and this French greeting is the perfect way to do so. We generally say glad or glad to meet you in English language.

8. À demain! – See you tomorrow!

The word demain can be replaced with any day of the week if you know that you will see the other person soon.

À literally means at we can even say À weekend which means see you in week end.

À lundi which means see you on Monday. Similarly we can use for rest of the weekdays, like À mardi which means see you on Tuesday and À jeudi which means see you on Thursday.

9. Bon week-end! – Have a good weekend!

The expression weekend is an English word. This word has come into regular usage now and is acceptable and we use it a lot in France. French word for it is “la fin de semaine” everything was closed on Sunday. This French law which aims to protect the French lifestyle and the traditional Sunday lunch with family.

On Friday after work, French people migrate. They take their car and visit a friends house or their farm house, “la maison de campagne”, (Guest house) which maybe in the countryside, by sea, or in the mountains, They come back on Sunday, usually late afternoon.

10. Bonne journée – It is used to say have a nice day.

Its used when you are leaving from that place.

“Bonne journée” is a “good bye” that you use upto 4 pm then you use “bonne soirée” for the evening while leaving and finally we use

“bonne nuit” which means good night.

11. Ça va? – It is used to say, how are you? The answer for this can be Ça va bien merci, which mean fine thank you.

12. S’il vous plaît – S’il vous plait means please, it can be used as a request.

13. Désolé – Means sorry as we use in English and when you want to say, I am sorry we use je suis désolé.
