THE COMPETITORS

Few habitats are tougher than African savannas. Within them, lions are known as the king of beasts.

But these big cats are often challenged by sly hyena clans. Living in groups as big as 80, hyenas are world-class hunters. It is a constant battle for savanna dominance between these two predators!

NEVER-ENDING APPETITES

Lions can eat as much as 75 pounds (34 kilograms) of meat in one sitting!

Lions are the world's second-largest cats. They have long bodies and large heads. Scruffy manes surround the faces of males.

Lions live in groups called prides. Prides usually have around 15 lions. They often hunt and eat together. The ferocious carnivores take whatever meat they find. They like to forcefully steal food from other predators like hyenas.
