Introduction

The power of thought is an incredible innate genetic tool all humans possess. The key is learning to unlock its potential. As you read the pages of this book, the intent is to equip each person with the desire to dominate their dreams.

When you acquire the knowledge of how your thoughts can create wealth, it's game over. Success emanates from you, and you can turn what you love to do into money.

We are all leaders in some form or fashion. My question is, are you leading or just talking the talk? If no one is following, then check the path you are pursuing.

People want to follow leaders. In the 21st century, humans seek new methods and techniques to overcome the challenges of life. Leaders study research and learn how to maximize their unique gifts in such a way that success is the only outcome. The results allow them to live the American dream.

People often get confused about what the American dream represents. Some misconceptions are owning a fancy house and buying lots of tangible items. All of those things are fantastic goals, but the ultimate target should be waking up every morning and doing what you love. Hence, a successful entrepreneur lives life on his or her terms and dictates their worth. No one tells them when to clock in for work, what days a week they have off, and most importantly, that person's worth is not decreed by how much they make per hour for someone else's accomplishments.

The power of thought begins with your ability to tap into the genetic material you possess. Look inside yourself and ask this priceless question: What is my genetically designed purpose, the one thing I execute with ease? That I can perform with precision? Then, focus on how you can maximize this life assignment.

My instructions start by creating a powerful and dominant mental mindset that will allow you to focus and concentrate on your purpose. You should be so focused on what you were born to do that others wonder whether you are possessed or obsessed with reaching your dreams and goals. It is after you achieve this level of concentration that your innate desires surface and success becomes real.

I mentor and coach talented writers every day. My gift allows me to help these individuals birth their dreams. I strive to accomplish my visions in every area of life.

My motto is: “You get strength by helping others succeed. Books are the creators of knowledge.”

Your Unemployment Story Begins

You Dictate How It Ends

The First Day of Your New Beginning

You got the call, or they just walked in and gave the announcement: you have been laid off. Whether it's a downsize, company merge, or restructure does not matter, today was your last day. As your heart stands still, the lump in your throat begins to swell, and you hold back the tears to escape the terrifying situation, visions of the future flash before your eyes. The hopeless emotions that go along with fear riddle your mind. A numb feeling takes hold while you clear out your desk and prepare to leave the office for the last time. As you struggle to keep control of your composure, someone makes mention of the situation, distracting you and causing the flood of pent-up stress to overflow in sight of everyone in the room.

You are not alone. Thousands of Americans across the country live in constant fear of losing their job every day. Companies even give the news on holidays or an employee's day off. Either way, unemployment is not a joke to anyone.

The answers you seek are in the pages of this book. Get Hired was designed to give you a step-by-step guide that mentors you through each layer involved in gaining employment in today's job market. The most critical phase is just ahead. You must rebuild your employment potential through this transition.

Unemployment is an equal opportunity experience; unemployment bypasses no one. You must not give up or quit. The key is to stay and fight; it's never too late.

Develop Your Natural Dynamic Potential

People spend hours in quiet places meditating on the meaning of life. Humans struggle on a daily basis to discover their true purpose. To create massive results and become a driving force in a prospective field, you must apply your talents, skills, and abilities.

Real success comes when people learn how to discover their Natural Dynamic Potential. Young people are not taught these skills. Therefore, most of us are at a disadvantage as life progresses. But, that does not mean you should stop trying. Today is your day! Make the most of what you have and work to reach your goals. If Michael Jordan, Tiger Woods, and Bill Gates found their power place, so can you.

From the time we are young, our lives developed from a foundation of some education, usually public schooling. Then we move on to college or a trade school to build more education, higher skills, abilities, and expertise in our career field. But it's all acquired to pour everything we have into someone else's dream. At this point, we are learning about what someone else knows, not what we know. You then let other people identify your talents in an interview, hire you, and incorporate your efforts to assist them in becoming wealthy. Don't get me wrong; it was great to grow up and allow corporate America to pay you a salary and in return let you live a certain quality of life. My question is, what quality of life are they allowing you to live?

The Industrial Age, while fantastic, it is the past. Now that we are traveling at the speed of thought, the Industrial Age and what worked fifteen years ago is becoming irrelevant. The free enterprise world has changed drastically. It allows people to turn what they love to do into money. The next generation made a conscious decision that they are not going to work for some company for twenty or thirty years like a dog, retire, get a gold watch and two years later have a heart attack and die.

Individuals are finally asking how to maximize their skills to create life leverage. The answer is simple: perfect your special gift. Then you will live the American dream, and I don't mean becoming a homeowner, either.

The modern apocalypse has changed the way humans see life on the planet. People want to get paid for doing what they love, plus make a handsome profit. By prospering from work you love, everyone wins, both buyer and seller. When you work or partner with like-minded individuals, overflowing abundance reveals itself to all parties.

The power to lead comes when you tap into the power within. This happens when you look inside yourself and ask the priceless question, "Who am I?"

My instruction creates a powerful mindset to help you concentrate on your purpose. Success becomes an obsession. Your passion gives you the freedom to break the chains of societal pressures to get a real job, and the operative word here is “job.” Anyone who loves what they do for a living will never work a day in their life. Dedicate yourself to you and your company.

We are all leaders in some shape, form, or fashion. If the past is not working, we must change the future.

I want to share a foolproof formula designed to help people discover their life assignment. The method was created to impact and empower you with the tools and resource you will need to maximize your potential.

Vision - Put your dreams and goals on the plasma screen of your mind. Concentrate on whatever you want to accomplish as a leader. You must start with the end in mind. Focus on the result; the challenges are mere speed bumps that won't hinder your goals if you don't let them.

Visual connections create an energy field with your thoughts driving passion into your purpose. Have you ever met anyone who is excited about their recent experience and wants to tell the world? It is that place which will connect you to your life assignment, your PURPOSE.

The past created your current path. Companies are reaping the benefits of your production, leaving you to wonder when you will take the lead. Once you learn to enable a visionary frame of mind, you will be a frontrunner.

Purpose—The more challenging question is discovering your innate skills. Think about the one thing you would do without getting paid, something no one else can compete with you with. It's the driving force behind your expertise. You don't have to think to perform such actions. Everyone has their purpose, so what's yours? I have also learned that some people have a multitude of talents.

One must scan the recesses of their mind to seek what excites the soul. The key to the equation is that the task is effortless. Other people will be amazed by your talents and wonder how you accomplish such work with ease. Discovering the one unique skill elevates you to the power place, your connection with the Universe. Now it's time to develop the discipline, and demonstrate and dominate your life passion.

Passion—Once you learn what supercharges your drive, the hunger to achieve greatness stimulates your inner being.

The mind is the control tower for who you become. Everything you do begins with your thought process. Imagine the power you have in your mind; focus on the one thing without limitation, and you will achieve every goal set for yourself. But remember, whether it's good or bad is moot because it all starts with your initial mindset.

The process starts with positive thought conversations. You rehearse them until they take over your subconscious. Discipline is a powerful tool when used properly. The focus brings forth your purposeful power zone.

Power—The amount of drive necessary to reach your power zone depends on the time dedicated to accomplishing your dreams and goals.

An explosion takes place in every area of your life when you reach this point. Whatever area you focus on begins to overflow with abundance. Take for example Oprah Winfrey, Tiger Woods, Bill Gates, Donald Trump, or Michael Jordan. When these individuals hit their power place, an explosion occurred, launching them to the top of their fields. Each of these people affected every person around them, just by discovering their life assignment. Your passion is driven by your purpose, propelling you to your power zones.

My friend, you can live your dreams. It may not be to that extent, but take the lead, make up your mind, and say, “If not me, then who? If not now, then when, if not here, then where?” It's up to you.

The only thing that's keeping you from experiencing the power of leadership in your life is YOU. The Employee Mentality has hurt America. It's time to bring forth a new mindset called the “Entrepreneur Mentality.” Stop thinking like an employee.

What is the Employee Mentality? It's simple: when someone goes to work and only does what's necessary. These are the people who appear to look busy. They accomplish nothing and leave someone else to pick up the slack. As an example, Jane Doe, “I don't care if anyone else walks through that door or buys anything. I'd be happy if no one else comes in the rest of the day.”

The unproductive hours cost the company money. A lack of manufacturing leads to downsizes and merges. This in return brings about layoffs and crossfires due to the lack of revenue.
