

The illustration depicts a vibrant forest scene with five children. One girl is perched on a tree branch using a hammer, another boy is lying on a branch with a camera, a girl stands on the ground holding a book, a boy sits on the grass writing, and a girl stands on the right painting. Swirling teal ribbons with a red dot are scattered throughout the scene. The title 'The Storytellers' is written in a large, white, cursive font in the center.

A good story can send you soaring through a magical sky.

There's no telling
where it may lead you...

From the time he was little,
Henry loved words.

He loved their warmth and giggled
when they tickled him.

Henry chased them.
He collected them.
He crafted them.

As he clambered up and into the dragon's lair, Eric started to shake. He was getting closer to the Dragon...

He spun his words with striking imagery into a story... and he dared to share his dream with another.
